

QnA Page Overview

Notes:

- The QnA Page displays a Question Post (A), along with all associated Answer Posts (B).
- The Question title (C) is shown as part of the Question Post.
- The Answer Post section starts with a header (D), which includes a sorting control (E).
 - Answer Posts may be sorted by time (labeled as newest, most recent first), or Post Tally (labeled as votes, highest value first).
 - Votes is the default sort order when visiting a QnA Page.
 - Comment dates are ignored when sorting by time.
- Each Post includes a Voting control (F), containing the Post Tally and Vote Up/Vote Down buttons.
 - Logged-in users may vote Up or Down for each post.
 - Once a vote is cast, it may not be changed.
 - The Voting control is disabled for Guests.
 - See Voting Control variations (below) for more details.
- Up to one Answer Post can include an Accepted Answer indicator (G). This indicates which Answer Post the asker considers the best response to the Question Post.
- For the asker, the Accepted Answer indicator is replaced by an Approve Answer control:

Not yet accepted

Accepted

- The asker can select any Answer Post as the Accepted Answer.
- The asker may change their choice for the Accepted Answer at any time.
- Posts can include comments (H).
- Logged-in users may add a comment to any Post by clicking "add comment" (I).
 - This control is disabled for Guests.
 - See QnA Page: Comments for details.
- For imported Stack Overflow questions, include a link (J) to the question's original source page. Include an appropriate tooltip, i.e.:

View original question on Stack Overflow

Voting Control variations

Guest

Logged In/
No vote cast

Logged In/Vote Cast (Up)